

WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE IN A GREAT COLLEGE TOWN?

The City of College Park is at a crossroads. With the growing size and prominence of the University of Maryland and the ongoing regional regional real estate boom, the area is primed for rapid change. Meanwhile, the city faces unprecedented traffic and continuing pressures to compromise its planning goals. It's time to Rethink College Park.

We believe a consensus is emerging about how College Park should develop: a walkable, inclusive, and dynamic city.

Despite this shared vision, the stakeholders remain isolated. University students bring energy and ideas but are often ill-informed about ongoing debates. University experts' vision and expertise are not connected to the work of municipal leaders. All too often developers only hear feedback in the form of criticism.

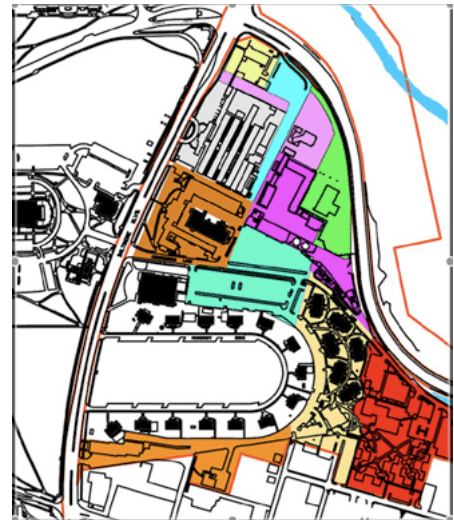

We hope our website— Rethink College Park— will begin to bridge these divides and foster a focused and sustained open conversation about the future of the city and facilitate a unique and ongoing visioning process. We hope you join the discussion.

DID YOU KNOW?

➔The University plans to build in the next few years over 1.5 million square feet of housing, retail, offices, and even a conference center on Route 1 at Paint Branch?

➔Last week, the city approved the zoning for a new 300-unit condo building to be located adjacent campus, next to the Hillel building?

➔The proposed Purple Line could go directly through campus?
